Armed Robbers Strike Twice Here; Loss at Supermarket May Be Large

Township police are continuing their investigations into two armed holdups last week, one in which the manager of the Acme Store in the Princeton Shopping Center was kicked and pistol-whipped, and another at the Phillips 66 Service Station on Route 206, where the robber, wearing a ski mask, escaped with approximately $800.

Employees at the Acme told police that the holdup men entered the store shortly before closing time Saturday night at 11. At gun point, police said, he ordered the store manager, 30-year old George Wolverton of Hamilton Township, and two female clerks to open the safe in the front office.

He pistol-whipped and kicked the manager and ordered the two clerks to lie on the floor. Mr. Wolverton complied and opened the safe. After the robber had obtained the money, Chief Frederick Porter reported, Mr. Wolverton followed him in an attempt to ascertain his means of escape. Once again, he was pistol-whipped outside the store.

Police said the robber escaped in a dark blue car that sped south on Harrison Street toward Nassau and was driven by an accomplice. The holdup man was described as white, 5-7 to 5-10, with a black moustache, wearing a blue ski-type jacket with hood, and grey khaki trousers.

Mr. Wolverton was treated at Princeton Medical Center for face, head and stomach injuries. Chief Porter said that there were a few customers in the store at the time, but they were not aware of what had transpired.

An inventory is being taken to ascertain, he said, how much money was stolen. "I have no idea how much it was at the present time," Chief Porter added, but he agreed that considering the holiday period, it could be sizeable.

Lieutenant Norman Servis and Detective Frank Boccanfuso are continuing the investigation. Chief Porter requested that the two young men in the store who called police at 11:02 reporting the holdup contact the Detective Bureau at 921-2100.

The robbery at the Phillips Station took place shortly after 9 last Tuesday evening when a man entered the office area to use the cigarette machine. When the two station attendants entered, police said, he quickly pulled a ski mask over his face. He held a brown paper bag in his hand which he told them contained a gun.

After ordering the attendants into the men's room, he took all the money each had in his possession. On the way out, he grabbed a money bag containing the day's receipts and disappeared into the night.

He was described as a black male, six feet tall, 180 pounds, wearing a bluejean jacket, tan boots with his trousers tucked inside and light brown driving gloves. Police report they do not know whether he escaped by car or on foot.

Cawley Names Steering Committee for Downtown Development

A group of citizens to guide the downtown planning consultants and make sure they haven't missed anything was named this week by Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley.

They will organize this Thursday, at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall, and will hear representatives of Venturi and Rauch, the consultants, who have been interviewing townspeople and examining various planning documents for the past several weeks.

The group will meet eight or ten times. Meetings with the public will begin in January, the mayor said, with everything tied up by March. Organizations and neighborhoods chose their own committee representatives.

The idea, the mayor explained, "is to reach agreement with a community-based group on the best possible plan, and gain as much public support as we can. It's no good having a perfect plan if nobody likes it. People on this steering committee will be asked to keep a dialogue going with their constituents—and they do have constituents; it's a representative body."

Venturi and Rauch, the new Steering Committee and the public are considering the best ways to arrange the expansion of Palmer Square and the library, and construction of housing for the elderly and a municipal parking garage.

Mayor Cawley will be chairman of the Steering Committee. Nelson van den Blink will be Borough Council's representative, and will serve as chairman when Mayor Cawley is absent. Council's alternate will be Richard Woodbridge who will replace Mrs. van den Blink if she has to chair a meeting.

Planning Board chairman and vice-chairman Margen Penick and Hans K. Sander will represent that body, with Ralph Verno as the alternate for both.

Representatives and alternates of the three institutions that want to build are: Golda Gottlieb for Princeton Community Housing (Laura Goldfarb); Janice Stonaker for the library (Conrad Snowden); and John P. Moran for Palmer Square, Inc., (Gene McPartland).

Ralph Hulit Jr. will represent the Chamber of Commerce (Florence Hillier). He is associated with his family's shoe store; she owns The Flower Basket.

Three neighborhoods have representatives: east, Ann McGoldrick, Vandeventer Avenue, (Richard Godfrey, Madison Street); north, Kathleen Edwards, Green Street (Ben Colbert, Leigh Avenue); west, Yota Heritos, Greenholm (no alternate).

Everett P. Garretson of H.P. Clayton and William Bittinger of The Country Mouse are merchant representatives. Three at-large members are lawyer Alan Wallack; Sam Hamill, executive director of the Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council and Merrill Lynch broker William Murdock, who has had wide experience in the economics and marketing of small shopping centers and malls.

Small Governing Body Seen Most Effective In Event Consolidation Takes Effect Here

As Princeton's two governing bodies prepare to decide how much money the Consolidation study Commission should have to run its studies, the Borough's Commission liaison, Richard Woodbridge, this week made two suggestions about the kind of government the town might have, if it's consolidated into one.

This Wednesday, Township Committee will consider the Commission's budget request. It is not known when Council will discuss the question. The budget is $16,309. Of that, $10,000 is for the actual professional and technical study and the state's Department of Community Affairs will pay 75 percent of that amount, or $7,500.

This leaves $8,809 for the two municipalities to split, on the basis of equalized rateables. This means the Township will contribute about two-thirds, or $5,902 and the Borough one-third, or $2,907, assuming, of course, the acceptance of the Commission's budget.

Under the law, the governing bodies must approve a budget within 30 days of the Commission's request, which was dated December 9;

however, nothing says the Commission budget must be accepted.

The budget includes $1,250 for secretarial services, $1,000 for attorney Gordon Griffin (20 hours at $50 an hour) on factual or procedural questions, and money for printing reports, telephone calls, postage and so on.

Mr. Woodbridge, in his first term on Council, has two basic concerns: first, volunteer government takes so much time that middle-income people find it hard to serve, but if Council salaries go above $10,000, then people run for office because of the money and not to serve the community; second, a governing body shouldn't be larger than five.

In fact, Mr. Woodbridge said candidly, he thinks the five-member township form of government is a lot more efficient than the seven-member council he sits on, one of whose members is a largely powerless mayor.

"There's a point of diminishing returns in the size of any body -- the bigger you get, the harder it is to address problems. Some experts say that point is eight members, and the Borough has seven."

Could Be a Figurehead. The mayor can only vote in case of a tie in certain instances, and contribute his presence to make a quorum.

"We have an active mayor in Bob Cawley," Mr. Woodbridge continues. "If we didn't, the mayor is just a training wheel in a lop-sided vehicle."

In Princeton Township, on the other hand, all five Committee members are equals, the mayor votes on all questions and is a direct participant.

"That form has some advantages," he continued. "It's more efficient. I just hope nobody on that Consolidation Commission says, well, let's be fair to everybody and add the Borough's seven and the Township's five and get a governing body of 12! No matter how capable the people, size impedes progress."

The Consolidation Study Commission meets each Thursday at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall. Under the open public meetings act, all meetings are open to the public.

TOWNSHIP AND PCV?

May Plow Main Road. Two public ordinance hearings will be held when Township Committee meets at 8 p.m. this Wednesday. One is the housing code revision that brings Borough and Township codes into line -- following the recommendations of the joint Borough-Township Health Commission.

The other provides for payment of $50,000 to reimburse the school board for changes made in the Valley Road building to accommodate Township offices.

Committee also expects to activate a new verb: "to sunset." It "will sunset" the Citizens Advisory Housing Council -- that is, will cause it to dissolve. Because the Planning Board is said to be nearing completion of the housing master plan, an advisory council on housing is thought to be no longer necessary.

At last Wednesday's Committee meeting, the governing body heard Princeton Community Village ask the Township to assume traffic and snow removal responsibility for the main loop road in PCV. Roads in the housing apartment complex are privately-owned and therefore not subject to municipal patrol or maintenance.

Committee asked its attorney, Gordon Griffin, to look over the laws and decide whether such municipal responsibilities are practical. Committee doesn't mind removing snow along the main loop itself, but suggested that PCV might do its own branching streets and parking areas. Police also wonder whether traffic patrols are practical on the short, narrow streets.

TO DISCUSS DEFEAT Of Windsor School Issue. The West Windsor-Plainsboro school board was scheduled to meet this Tuesday night in its regular session, and to discuss "What now?" in light of last week's defeat of the $6,650,000 bond issue to build a middle school.

The proposal was voted down by 786 to 581. In West Windsor, 755 voted "no" and 515 voted "yes." In the other half of the district, the measure passed, with Plainsboro casting 66 votes in favor, and 31 opposed.

Although the school board can re-submit the same proposition to the voters after 60 days, the expectation is that the board will look at the proposal anew and ponder the various alternatives.

"I feel the board will want to re-examine the question," said Superintendent Richard Willever.

The defeat was not a surprise, he added. "We were not

2 Hooded Mergansers, Snow Goose, Long-Billed Marsh Wren All Brave High Winds to Be Included in Christmas Bird Count

The annual Princeton Christmas Bird Count took place as scheduled Sunday despite high winds of around 40 miles per hour and gusts of even higher velocity.

"It was the second worst kind of weather we could have had," said Tom Southerland gloomily. "Everything was completely hidden." Last year's bird count had to be rescheduled after a day of heavy rains and wind, presumably the worst kind of weather, in which many participants gave up in the middle of the day.

This year no one gave up, but there weren't many birds to be seen, particularly after 8 a.m. "I can't tell you how many fields we walked through looking for sparrows to pop up," said Mr. Southerland, a well-known birder who has compiled a life list with his wife of more than 600 species.

In all, some 80 species were tallied for the day, down sharply from the 95 or so seen in recent years. If the count had been held Saturday, a mild and sunny day with little or no wind, the results would have told a different story, Mr. Southerland thinks.

The Southerlands were personally responsible for adding the northern shrike to the census for the third year in a row. They saw it flying and also perched on a bush in Rosedale Park, where they also got a female bob white. With the aid of their tape recorder, they also picked up the call of a pileated woodpecker and a Virginia rail in the Charles H. Rogers Wildlife Refuge off Alexander Street.

Birds that were missing from the count this year were the ruffed grouse, rusty blackbirds, towhees, thrashers, all warblers except the myrtle warbler, and fish crows. However, two hooded mergansers were seen as well as a snow goose and a long-billed marsh wren. There were more snow buntings to be found than lapland longspurs, a situation which is generally the reverse.

For those who have been wondering why there have been many fewer birds at their feeders this year, Mr. Southerland places the blame squarely on the unusually balmy weather throughout the fall. Birds migrating south were not held up here by bad weather and they kept on going, he says. TOWN TOPICS will publish the complete list of birds and participants as soon as it has been compiled.

brimming with optimism that it would pass. We have projections on new housing in years to come, and the crunch isn't here yet. It's hard to ask people to spend money, based on that kind of thing."

However, he warned that "as of next year, the high school will be crowded; as of the year after that, it will be over-crowded. We must make some decisions, which the community can support, on relieving that situation."

TENTATIVE DISMISSALS

For Three in Drug Raid. Three Princeton University students arrested December 1 in a drug raid on the campus in which 21 students were taken into custody were given conditional discharges Monday by Judge Philip Carchman in Borough court.

They are Peter DeLoey and Neil Leonard, both of 71 Little Hall, both charged with possession of under 25 grams of a controlled dangerous substance, and Thomas Lyon, 19, 11A Holder Hall, charged with possession of marijuana.

Edward J. Bergman, attorney for Leonard and Lyon, said the students were able to seek a conditional discharge because of the relatively minor nature of their offenses and because they have no previous drug violations.

All will have to appear in court again in six months, when the charges against them may be dismissed.

POLICE SONG

"The 12 B&Es of Christmas," Police in the Township and Borough reported 12 breaking and enterings last week.

However, stereos, cameras and cash replaced partridges, swans and maids-a-milking as the hot items.

Township police report a storage room in 1922 Hall on the Princeton University campus was entered between 9 a.m. and 5:30 Monday by an intruder who broke a 20-inch by five-foot window pane to reach in and unlock the window. A stereo system owned by a student valued at $699.75 was taken. Nothing else was disturbed, police said.

The last couple of days of fall, a season that was generally milder and more pleasant than usual, won't be much to cheer about. Wednesday was expected to bring a variety of different forms of precipitation, possible snow, sleet and then rain. The rain could last into Thursday, the forecast indicated.

The sub-freezing cold earlier this week (readings in the teens Tuesday morning) is scheduled to give way to more seasonable weather. The winter just ahead will not come close to matching the last two in snow and cold, the U.S. Weather Service has reported.

Street was entered between Sunday afternoon and Monday morning by someone who broke a rear window to gain access. The only thing stolen, according to police, was $5 from a coffee can on a file cabinet in the receptionist's area.

The front door of the Princeton Church of Christ on River Road was pried off its hinges Sunday afternoon between 1:30 and 6:15. Although the church was entered, nothing appears to have been taken.

Police report they have the out-of-state registration of a car that was seen leaving the parking area of the church. Ptl. Harry Morton is continuing the investigation.

Three on Dickinson St. In the Borough, there were three break-ins on Dickinson Street.

The most recent, reported at 8 Sunday evening, listed the theft of a $250 electric typewriter and a $150 camera. An unlocked window leading to a fire escape was used to enter the victim's apartment, police said.

Other valuable items were left behind but $30 in cash was taken from a student's room on Dickinson between 7:30 and 11:30 Friday night -- again an open window made it easy -- and the same day, same time, 7:30 to 10:45, $70 was stolen from a dresser drawer in a Dickinson Street room. Entry: through an unlocked window near a fire escape.

Jewelry valued at approximately $1,200 -- gold and silver necklaces, earrings, chains, rings -- were stolen during the weekend from the Country Mouse, 164 Nassau. A pane of glass in the front door was broken to get inside.

Police place the entry between 8:45 Friday evening and 8:34 Saturday morning.

In two home thefts, a black wallet containing approximately $15 was removed from a shoulder bag in a kitchen of a Wiggins Street resident during the weekend -- there was no forced entry -- while a Murray Place home was entered earlier in the week.

Taken from the latter were a $250 portable shortwave receiver, a $75 camera, two camera tripods and two flood light stands ($60) and three bottles of liquor. The thief entered through an unlocked cellar door and then forced a door at the top of the stairs.

Campus Again. Borough police also list three campus entries.

A 35mm camera and case ($150) and $75 telephoto lens were removed from a room in Pyne Hall; another camera valued at $200 and $25 cash were stolen from a room in Henry Hall, where the victim told police he had locked his door but, returning two and one-half hours later, discovered the door and window open.

An unlocked window was used to enter a room in Alexander Hall on the Theological Seminary campus. It yielded $26 in cash, a $63.12 money order, a $115 stereo turntable and an AM-FM receiver valued at $105.

BOROUGH MAN CHARGED

With Obstruction. Thomas Dent, 22, 118 Witherspoon Street, has been charged by Borough police with obstructing and interfering, after he was arrested late Friday night in the emergency room at Princeton Medical Center.

Police were called at 11:47 to assist with quieting a drunken patient, who was fighting with hospital staff members. Dent had gone for treatment of a foot injury, police continued, but refused to co-operate and became loud and abusive.

He was placed overnight in a Borough cell and released the next morning with a complaint summons.

Kenneth C. Woods, 30, of Dayton has been charged with trespassing, after he was found early Tuesday morning sleeping on a couch in Wilcox Hall on the university campus.

A resident of Lafayette, La., David C. Michot, 24, was charged with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana when he was discovered at 2:58 Monday morning sleeping in a student's room in Witherspoon Hall. Police said he is not a Princeton student.

STONES ARE STUFFED

In Gas Filter Pipes. Two cars parked on King Street were the target of malicious mischief last week.

Police report that the gas caps of both cars were removed and small stones stuffed down the gas filter pipe. One owner lived on King Street, the other on Hartley Avenue.

THEFT REPORT

Car Cover, Case of Beer. Among those items reported stolen last week by Borough police are a canvas sports car cover and a case of beer.

The car cover, valued at $58, was taken off a sports car parked overnight in a Princeton Seminary lot. It was owned by a Library Place resident, police said. The case of beer, together with two bottles of whiskey (total value $36) was stolen from Charter Club, 79 Prospect Avenue. Two suspicious persons were seen at the rear of the club prior to the discovery of the theft, police said.

A wallet containing $40 was taken from the top drawer of a desk in a student's unlocked room in Little Hall, while a wallet containing $100 was stolen from a children's playroom at the Eden Institute, 24 Nassau Street. Police identified the victim as a Rahway resident.

A blue and silver 10-speed bicycle was stolen between 5 and 7:10 Thursday evening while it was left outside the pool area at the YMCA, and a $500 moped was stolen from a Hun School bike rack where the student-owner, a Dodds Lane resident, had left it secured with a chain. It was taken during the night.

School Board Ruling Will Prevent Pupils From Playing Secular Music in the Square

A last-minute "no" from school officials has meant that children in Princeton's public elementary and Middle Schools cannot play brief concerts of secular music this week on Palmer Square.

However, anybody can join the Christmas Carol parade that will form at 5 Christmas Eve at the Public Library, and proceed through Palmer Square to the Green in front of the post office to meet a brass band and begin the singing.

Anne Reeves, who has been engaged in holiday planning for Palmer Square, Inc., said she had approval from school officials for the appearance of various music groups in the schools. They would have been playing or singing secular music, she said, the kind of thing they've been learning all fall.

However, she received a letter from Superintendent Paul Houston who said he was sorry, but school board policy prohibited the involvement of the schools in religious events. Dr. Houston commented in his letter that "after the holly falls," he would set up a meeting for everyone concerned to re-examine this policy.

"I'm sorry now that I had approval in the first place," Mrs. Reeves said, "I'm embarrassed, because people expected to find the music, there on the Green. It was a community thing, not religious at all. And I know this application of policy isn't the feeling of the entire school board."

A Somerville resident's visit to Princeton proved costly last week when his car parked in a Jadwin Gym lot was looted. A thief forced open a rear window, police said, and removed a $100 AM-FM stereo, two speakers and a 5-band radio. Total loss: $298.

Also near Jadwin Gym, a Holder Hall student had a cash box containing $10 to $20 snatched from under his arm at 11:30 p.m. by a youth who police described as about 14. He was white, 5-6 to 5-8, with wavy brown hair, wearing a dark jacket and dark jeans.

A Princeton University graduate student with offices in Guyot Hall discovered his Good Samaritan role had backfired last week.

Police said he let a friend sleep overnight in his office in his sleeping bag. When he returned in the morning, his $10 sleeping bag was gone as was a blue micro reader with viewing screen valued at $150.

ACCIDENT ON 206

Truck Hits Pole, Tree. A truck operated by Thomas G. Palumbo, 33, of Newark, ran off Route 206 last week between Arretton Road and Hillside Avenue and traveled 24 feet before striking a utility pole. It then continued on and hit a tree in front of 644 Route 206.

Mr. Palumbo complained of head pains, his wife, Teresa, 29, of back pains. Both were treated at Princeton Medical Center.

Hit and Run. Bruce Richardson, 24, of Trenton, was the victim of a hit and run early Monday morning on Route 27 between Roper and Carnegie roads.

He told police that he had stepped out of his car when another coming by grazed him slightly, knocking him down. He was treated for a hip injury at the Medical Center. Police have no description of the other car. The 1:16 a.m. incident was investigated by Ptl. Mark Emann.

Later, at the Medical Center, Borough police

Princetonians' Book Tells Tennis Players What to Eat and How to Stay in Best Form

Connie Haynes and Steven Kraft

Connie Haynes and Steven Kraft have co-authored "The Tennis Player's Diet: A Guide to Better Nutrition On and Off the Court." Another Princeton resident, Lucy Graves McVicker, illustrated the book. The authors provide information for players who want to improve their on-court performance by increasing and sustaining energy and by balancing fluid loss.

Three times ranked number one in junior divisions of the Middle States Tennis Association, Mr. Kraft's junior wins include two doubles titles with partner Dick Stockton and the New England 16 Singles Championships. Captain of the Lawrenceville team and a varsity player for Harvard, Mr. Kraft became interested in diet and nutrition when he found himself gaining weight once he had withdrawn from regular competition. He began researching the topic on his own, although he soon attracted Mrs. Haynes's interest and research ability. As a registered nurse whose husband, William F. Haynes, Jr., practices as an internist and a cardiologist, she is well acquainted with medical fact finding. She is also ranked in Middle States Singles.

"The Tennis Player's Diet" seeks to increase the reader's food awareness in meeting everyday nutritional needs as well as selecting food for fitness. Understanding the science of the body's electrolyte balance, of calories, of drugs and alcohol and of vegetarian nutrition constitutes much of the book, usually with an emphasis on "health foods."

TO SUPPLY GREENS

For Red Cross Trays. Good King Wenceslaus took bread and wine to a man dwelling "underneath the mountain." The Red Cross this week will make some 30 trips Monday and Friday to individuals underneath "mountains" so to speak.

Shut-in, handicapped, or unable to cope with cooking, each will receive a hot mid-day meal accompanied by a sandwich for supper with fruit, cookies and holiday greens as cheerful as the words of greeting from the volunteer "page." Since the beginning of this service, The Garden Club of Princeton, member of The Garden Club of America, has provided the Christmas greens, fresh cut from members' hollies.

Nassau Inn to Provide Stan Rubin's Dance Music Friday-Saturday Nights, His Dixieland Sundays

Mary Ann Von Verdo, president of Restaurant Associates' management division, which has assumed operational responsibilities for the Nassau Inn, has announced that plans are well under way to have Stan Rubin assume an active role in providing musical entertainment for the guests and patrons of the Nassau Inn.

Mr. Rubin, a 1955 graduate of Princeton, is well known here for his appearances at eating clubs and alumni reunions. While he was still an undergraduate, his group -- Stan Rubin and the Tiger Town Five -- played to a sell-out at Carnegie Hall reminiscent of the 1938 Benny Goodman concerts. In addition to performances at college and society events, Mr. Rubin was the only American entertainer at the wedding of Princess Grace of Monaco.

While Mr. Rubin will not be present at the Nassau Inn on New Year's Eve, because of a previously scheduled performance at Roseland, he has arranged an outstanding array of entertainment. Trumpets played by two of the best known names in the country will headline the celebrations.

A five-piece ensemble, featuring jazz and rock, will be led by Hal Lieberman, for six years first trumpet with the Benny Goodman Orchestra. Benny Ventura, another graduate of the Goodman organization, and Eddie Shu, formerly with Gene Krupa, will headline on trumpet and sax for the seven-piece dance orchestra.

Both orchestras will play medleys in a variety of different styles. Featured by the dance orchestra will be Stan Rubin's library of the swing music of the 30's and 40's. During the last 15 years, Rubin and his arranger have purchased or recreated a library of more than 3,000 original arrangements of all the great artists including Glenn Miller, Glenn Gray and his Casa Loma Orchestra, Artie Shaw, Tommy Dorsey and Benny Goodman.

Negotiations are currently under way for Rubin's organization to provide a substantial portion of the weekend entertainment at the Nassau Inn, and he has expressed himself as being delighted at the opportunity to return to his alma mater and to become associated on a long-term basis with the Princeton area. The basic entertainment format will provide groups for dance music on Friday and Saturday with Dixieland jazz extravaganzas Sunday afternoons.

Emphasis will be placed on the talents of name musicians and Rubin will be a frequent performer. More details will follow as soon as schedules and arrangements are formalized.

LIBRARY & "MERWICK"
Working Together. People with medical problems that make it difficult for them to speak -- anyone from a child to an elderly man or woman who has had a stroke -- are finding the Princeton Public Library a "warm, inviting, accepting place."

The words are those of Robert Staples, library director, who is working closely with the professional staff of the Medical Center's communication disorders unit at "Merwick."

"We direct the program toward young patients and post-stroke patients," explains Benjamin Accardi, assistant vice-president for the Medical Center in charge of the "Merwick" unit.

"These are people who, because of medical disabilities, may experience difficulty in speaking, writing, reading and understanding."

Larger Print Helpful. The patients are given a tour of the library's facilities, perhaps assigned to a specific librarian who then helps them on a person basis to find the kind of reading material they most enjoy.

The large-print books, for example, have been a great help, Mr. Staples points out, and the library's film loan program provides movies for weekly screenings.

Often a speech pathologist will call on Dudley Carlson, children's librarian, to ask for special material. Children and their parents are encouraged to develop the library habit, and to become acquainted with Mrs. Carlson and her staff, and the children's books. Often these books are incorporated into a child's therapy program.

"The library serves a very important social need in the extension of therapy for the patient," Mr. Accardi says, "While they are at the library, the patients associate with other people, and attempt to use the limited communication skills they have, to make their desires known."

SWIM CLASSES SET
For Non-Swimmers. The YWCA and the Red Cross extend an invitation to all non-swimmers and to timid swimmers to attend free winter "Learn to Swim" sessions.

The women's session will be held January 3, 4 and 5 at 9:30-10:30 a.m. A free practice swim will follow from 10:30-11:30 a.m. A nursery will be available.

The free children's session, ages 6 and up, is scheduled for January 8 and 10 at 3:30 and 4:10. Classes will be limited in number. The classes are structured yet informal, taught by well informed, patient instructors.

To sign up come in or call the YWCA, at 924-4825, Ext. 13.

RETIREMENT PLANNED

By Trenton State Head. Dr. Clayton R. Brower of 10 Murphy Drive, Pennington, has announced he will retire after a decade of leadership as president of Trenton State College. His retirement will be effective January 1, 1980.

Dr. Brower assumed the presidency in 1971, after serving as interim president for a year. With A.B. and M.A. degrees from Syracuse University and an Ed.D. from Columbia, he came to TSC in 1962 as a professor of education and chairman of the Education Department.

Prior to that, he had been assistant superintendent of schools in Plainfield for eight years, and had taught social studies and directed the adult education program at Pulaski Academy and Central School in Pulaski, N.Y.

Trenton State College has experienced a period of growth and has become a strong multipurpose institution during the ten years of Dr. Brower's presidency. Programs in business, criminal justice, nursing and technologies now enroll a large percentage of the more than 10,000 full and part-time students.

Under Dr. Brower's guidance, the campus master plan was completed with the addition of the Travers-Wolfe residence halls, the Alfred P. Holman humanities building, the education building, the nursing building, the addition to the Roscoe L. West Library, the Crowell Hall science addition, and the Student Center. Traffic was restricted to the campus perimeter and the addition of broad walkways and extensive landscaping enhanced the park-like atmosphere of the Hillwood Lakes campus.

Dr. Brower did not announce plans for the future. With retirement a year away, he is committed to giving the college "the same interest, energy, and enthusiasm that I have tried to provide in the past."

TWO ARE CHARGED

In Bike Theft. A 19-year old Trenton resident, Nathaniel C. Willis Jr. and a 13-year old Township juvenile have been charged by Borough police with several offenses after

FLAMES ENGULF CAR

On The Great Road, A 1970 foreign car was totally destroyed last week when it became engulfed in flames on the Great Road at Mountain Avenue. It was owned by Hank & Sons Motors of Trenton.

The driver told police she was driving on The Great Road when she heard a loud bang. She pulled over to the curb and smoke and flames shot out from the rear engine area. By the time firemen arrived, the car was completely engulfed in flames, police said.

STUDENTS BRING CHEER

At Christmas-Time from PDS. Close to 300 middle school students from Princeton Day School, accompanied by teachers and parents, fanned out over the greater Princeton area last week bringing holiday cheer to residents of nursing homes, senior citizens' housing complexes and shoppers on Nassau Street.

The community service project, implemented by children in grades five through eight, was initiated and organized by Pete Jaques, head of the middle school, and the homeroom teachers, with assistance from Marty Stockton, co-ordinator of youth activities for the Princeton Red Cross.

While most visits were to institutions within a ten mile radius of the school, three fifth grade groups and one seventh grade homeroom ventured farther afield, bringing their carols, gifts of cookies and their greetings to the Sunnysfield, Sun Lawn and Elms nursing homes and the Applegarth Care Center in the Hightstown-Cranbury area. Two seventh grade groups brought gifts to the Morris Hall Home for the Aged, where some of the students also staged a variety show, complete with a magic act.

Another seventh grade contingent sang at the Lawrenceville nursing home. One sixth grade group performed a mystery play at Our Lady of Princeton for residents and retired nuns. Another sang for the elderly in the halls and dining rooms of the Princeton Nursing Home.

A sixth grade homeroom combined forces with one from seventh grade to bring their gifts of music and refreshments to patients at Merwick. One troupe sang outside windows at Lloyd Terrace and were invited inside by a 98 year old woman who joined in the carolling. Eighth grade homerooms

Post Office Cautions That 'Circle of Gold,' $100 Chain Letter, Does Not Lead to Riches

Residents of the Princeton area were warned by the Post Office this week against the "Circle of Gold," a chain letter which is surfacing in many parts of the nation. It is believed to have started early this fall in Marin and Santa Cruz counties near San Francisco, and appears to be working its way eastward.

The Post Office statement reports that: "Typically, the chain requires any participant to buy two copies of the letter for $100 in cash. The buyer in a face-to-face transaction gives $50 of the total to the person from whom the letter was purchased and sends the other $50 to the first person at the top of a 12-name list. This top name is then crossed off and the buyer's name is added at the bottom of each copy before it is sold again."

"The scheme is similar to a Series 'E' Savings Bond scheme popular during the summer of 1976."

"Aside from the fact that those who buy and sell the chain letter are actually in violation of a Federal law," Chief Inspector C. Nil Benson said, "the majority of those who become involved in this type of scheme end up as victims since actual profits from chain letters usually reach only those who enter the scheme early."

"If the scheme involves the mailing of money, a bond or other valuable item, even if the chain letters themselves are not mailed, it is still a violation of Federal law."

"However, so-called chain letters offering nothing more than recipes or the like are considered to be mailable because the items mailed do not constitute "a thing of value" within the meaning of the applicable law. Postal cards involving a "good luck" chain containing a threat of bad luck to those who break the chain are, however, illegal under a law that prohibits placement of threatening matter on the outside of mail."

"Chief Benson urged those who receive all chain letters to turn them over promptly to any postmaster or Postal Inspector to avoid possible criminal involvement in the scheme, and to assist the Postal Service in its efforts to protect the public from this activity."

MONEY FOR THE SQUAD?

More Efficiency? How can the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad raise more money and how can it wring more out of the money it already receives?

Two financial and promotional experts -- former CIT vice-president and Township Mayor William L. Wilson, and Ralph ("Doc") Lenhart, of the Lenhart advertising agency, sat in on the Squad's last meeting and helped steer the group toward some questions and answers.

The Squad wants -- and doesn't want -- municipal financial aid. It would like the money. But it would lose some controls, would have to set up a budget which Borough and Township would then oversee and criticize and might have to accept less in voluntary contributions.

The Squad's financial overview committee has decided to find out whether money is available from other sources than municipal -- Federal, state, county or private. It may also consider a separate capital fund drive for a new ambulance only.

There is also the fact that the Squad doesn't serve as wide an area as it once did, since surrounding communities have formed their own Squads. The final question, the financial committee has suggested, may really be whether the Squad really needs additional money, since its area has decreased.

Real Estate

CARMEN R. MANZONI, IFA, GRI

Appraiser -- Consultant

Real Estate vs Dow Jones

When we compare the results over the past 18 years between stock market profits and real estate increases, we'll see quite a dramatic difference in dollars.

In the decade from January 1960, to January 1970, the Dow Jones Industrial average jumped from 688 to 800 -- an increase of 16 percent in ten years. During the same ten-year period, the average home price increased from $18,307 to $27,022 -- an appreciation of 48 percent or triple the Dow.

By January, 1978, the Dow Jones average still sat around the 800 level for an 18-year appreciation of 16 percent while home prices continued to increase faster than the cost of living to $48,600 -- up 265 percent since 1960. Today, the Dow Jones is far below its peak (it reached 1,000 in Spring of 1977) while home prices keep rising faster than the cost of living.

No matter how you slice the cake, an investment in real estate over the past 18 years has proven to more than triple the stock market increase. And the trend is widening in favor of real estate.

BOOK FUND SET

In Mrs. Smith's Memory. A book fund has been established for the Bryn Mawr College Library in memory of Nancy Baldwin Smith (Mrs. E. Baldwin Smith). Contributions to the Nancy Baldwin Smith Book Fund for the Bryn Mawr College Library may be made through Mrs. Donald Spence, 9 Haslet Avenue. Checks should be made out to Bryn Mawr College; in this way gifts are tax-deductible and may be eligible for matching funds.

Tree Limb vs. Car

"Tree limb versus car" was the entry in the docket — the only one reported by police in both the Borough and Township that was blamed on the high winds that visited the area during the weekend.

A large tree limb in front of 111 Prospect Avenue came down just before 2 p.m. on Monday. It completely blocked traffic on Prospect.

Underneath was a car owned by a Dutch Neck resident. The limb had not been completely severed from the trunk and it was supported by the pavement. While police tried unsuccessfully to locate the owner of the car, the limb fell the rest of the way and dented the car's front fender. A Borough road crew used a backhoe to lift the limb and police were able to unlock the car and move it away.

program beginning Thursday from 4:30 until 6:30. Children in grades 4 through 8 who attend school or reside in Princeton may register Thursday at the Valley Road School gym.

The program will run for 10 weeks with no class scheduled on December 28 because of the holidays. Mrs. Nancy Valosin will be instructing the class for the fifth consecutive year. Mrs. Valosin was a member of the Trenton State Gymnastics Team and taught at Mercer County Community College.

ART In Princeton

WILDLIFE ON VIEW

In Color Photography Exhibit. Elise Goldman of Princeton will display a selection of her color wildlife photographs in the Anne Reid Art Gallery at Princeton Day School during the month of January.

Mrs. Goldman, who has been involved in photography since 1971, studied with Bob Denby at P.D.S. and with National Geographic Wildlife photographer David Hiser. The approximately 40 photographs in this show were taken in Maine, the Caribbean Islands, and Princeton. They cover a wide range of subjects: woodscapes, close-up abstractions of flowers, and various species of birds and butterflies.

Mrs. Goldman's camera explores the private, mysterious workings of nature which most of us have never seen before. One remarkable sequence shows the hatching process of the Frigate bird photographed on the small island of Barbuda. Another meticulously composed image analyzes in close-up the colorful Monarch butterfly. Hours for the P.D.S. Anne Reid Art Gallery are 8:30 to 3:30, Monday through Friday.

WORKSHOP PLANNED

In Watercolor. The Princeton Art Association is offering a special three-day workshop under the direction of Vincent Ceglia, an area watercolorist who has achieved considerable recognition for his work.

This watercolor workshop, which will be held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, January 8-10, will begin at 9:30 and continue until 3:30. The object of the concentrated class will be to develop each student's individual style and range of technical knowledge. Mr. Ceglia, who is a professor of visual arts at Mercer County College and a member of the Salmagundi, Artists Equity and other professional groups, will give demonstrations as the need arises.

PAA regular winter classes

EVERGLADES DENIZEN: Elise Goldman's camera caught this mature American egret in the Florida Everglades. An exhibit of her wildlife photography will be on view at the Princeton Day School from January 4 through the end of the month.

will begin on Monday, January 15. For more information about the workshop or classes, call the Association, located on Rosedale Road, at 921-9173.

ART ON VIEW

Fram Southeast Asia. A group of Asian art from a private collection is being displayed at The Loft Gallery Center for the Arts, 306 Alexander Street. The group includes oils on canvas, batik paintings on silk, watercolors, bronzes, and wood carvings.

The arts of India, Nepal, Maylasia, Singapore, and Indonesia are represented largely by young artists' portraying the folk-arts of this region, with strong overtones of the primitive.

This exhibit will continue through January. The Loft Art Gallery is open Tuesday through Saturday, 10 to 5. There is ample free parking for all patrons.

QUILTS ON VIEW

At Cranbury Museum. Antique quilts will be on exhibit at the Cranbury Preservation and Historical Museum during January, February and March. The exhibit will include examples of appliqued, patchwork, and crazy quilts dating from the early 1800's to the turn of the century.

In addition to the quilts owned by the Museum and those loaned by private collectors, there will be a display of 15 rarely seen quilts loaned to Cranbury by the Staten Island Historical Museum.

Though their original purpose was providing warmth on cold winter nights, these quilts are now akin to stories of the olden days. Some are pieced together in anticipation of a wedding day or of a new baby. Some have stitching so exquisite it is almost invisible and others are intended to show off every fancy stitch in the needlewoman's repertoire.

The Cranbury Museum, 4 Park Place, is open to the public, free of charge, on Saturdays and Sundays from 2 to 5.

GALLERY MOVES

To New Location. Jacmel Gallery, normally specializing in Primitive and Naive artists, has opened its new location at 9 Mechanic Street, New Hope, to an exhibition of contemporary Italian art, along with recent work of three area artists.

The Italian collection was assembled in Rome and shown in the month of October in New York at the Union-Carbine Gallery on Park Avenue. Among the Italian names represented are Renato Guttuso, Antonio Guarneri, Jon Rame, Orietta Santarelli and Franco Benigni. Calabria and Tamburi are also represented by single works.

The paintings run from representational to photo-realistic, and from abstract expressionist to naive.

Among the painters from nearby are several works of Jane Pyle (Philadelphia), Guy Ciarccia (Hopewell), and Theresa Walsh (Doylestown). The show will run through December 29.

For further information, call (215) 862-2115. Jacmel Gallery is owned by Katherine Book of Princeton and Dan Sullivan of Ringoes.

EXHIBIT PLANNED

By Watercolorist. Bridgewater artist Diana W. Patton will have a one-woman show of her watercolors and watercolor with pen and ink at the First National Bank of Central Jersey, Rocky Hill, through January 5.

Although she has exhibited widely this will be the first solo show for Mrs. Patton in this area. It will include florals, several local scenes, and scenes done from a trip she made to Australia and New Zealand in 1977.

Mrs. Patton specializes in painting New Jersey and Maine scenes, and "house" and "vacation" portraits. Her work has been in such juried shows as the Garden State Watercolor Society, the New Jersey Watercolor Society, National Miniature Art Show, and Somerset County College's Tri-State Show, where she recently won an award for her watercolor "Camel Rest."

The show is open to the public during regular banking hours and is sponsored by the Princeton Art Association.

Princeton Regional School HIGHLIGHTS

(The following information was researched and written by members of the Regional Schools PTO Council, and the opinions expressed are not those of TOWN TOPICS.)

SINCE THIS COLUMN BEGAN In September 1977, there have been a number of roving PTO reporters, gathering and forwarding news from their schools along with dates and places of meetings and performances of interest to the general public. Without such help, HIGHLIGHTS would be an impossible undertaking: with them, a pleasure.

This year's "nose for news" awards go to Mimi Ballard, Riverside; Linda Kirschner, Littlebrook; Myrna Bearse, Johnson Park; Madeline Blinder, Community Park; Ginger Lennon, John Witherspoon; Frank Soda, Princeton High; Dorothy Kamm, Calendar. Tady Hunter edits the column and Rosemary McGee serves as liaison to the PTO Council.

LEGISLATIVE ACTION HAS CHANGED the dates for school board elections and budget referenda from the usual February dates until early April. However, the old requirement in submission of a tentative budget was not amended at the same time; work on programs, people, and dollars is now underway at Valley Road offices for submission to the Board of Education on Friday. Following the winter vacation a series of budget meetings will be held for both board and public questions, changes, and input. If any parent or community member would like to review the tentative budget, it will be available at Valley Road School on January second. Meeting dates are scheduled for January 2, 4, 9, and 11 (Tuesday and Thursday evenings) at the conference room in Valley Road School. The official Budget Hearing will be held on March 13; earlier meetings in January are the best time for suggestions to be put forward.

BOARD OF EDUCATION MEMBER Rosalind Frisch will oversee planning for a meeting with townspeople interested in becoming candidates for the Board in this spring's election. Filing dates have been moved to late February; current plans are to hold sessions near that time.

IT MAY WELL BE A SECRET to most Princetonians: a volcano has erupted at Littlebrook School. Actually, six volcanoes blew their tops with the help of Mrs. Eleanor Dreeben's fourth grade class. Their study of the science of volcanoes was accompanied by help from art teacher David Mackey in the construction of replica models. Finally the awesome event: six volcanoes erupted during one school day!

JOHN WITHERSPOON'S HOUSE 7 took a morning off to combine fun with physical education by donning ice skates and learning — or perfecting — the art of remaining upright on the slippery surface of the Lawrenceville rink. The "pros" in the group aided the amateurs in mastery of this favorite winter sport.

MUSIC AT RIVERSIDE SCHOOL emphasized the instruments of the past as Geoffrey Naylor, an American Recorder Society teacher and instructor at Westminster Choir College, recently demonstrated Medieval, Renaissance, and Baroque styles. A crumhorn, rackets, harp, and recorder were used to show the varied types and timbres of instruments; construction and pitch were explained as well. Parent Alison Hankinson accompanied Mr. Naylor.

LITTLEBROOK'S FOURTH AND FIFTH graders participated in a folk-rock workshop directed by student teacher Mr. Kevin Rhein, and Mrs. Pamela Kagdis-Rhein, seniors at Westminster. The workshop demonstrated different aspects of electronic music and reinforced Kodaly and Dalcroze Eurhythmic techniques regularly used in Mrs. Middlebrook's music classes there.

A PRINCETON HIGH SCHOOL Holiday Tea was held last Thursday to honor retirees and to underscore PTO thanks for the care and concern given by them to students past and present. Mrs. Mollie Updike, Mr. Jack Horner, and Mr. Frank Soda were awarded "keys" — a symbol of service at PHS.

TOM ADAMS, ONE OF JOHN WITHERSPOON'S more versatile teachers, spent a morning at Dutch Neck School in West Windsor with Mrs. Margaret Merrill's fifth grade class. Subject: microscopic creatures; enthusiasm: unbounded. Mr. Adams' expertise in identifying and photographing pond-life was shared with this neighboring school district as a first in exchanging talent and interests.

25 YEARS CELEBRATED
By Polychrome Press.
Princeton Polychrome Press marked its silver anniversary Friday with a service awards dinner-dance at Forsgate Country Club. The company originated 25 years ago in the basement of what is now the expanded Lahiere's Restaurant on Witherspoon Street.

President David Johnson left Eastman Kodak Co. in Rochester, N.Y., in the winter of 1953 to establish a print shop below what was then Pak-man's jewelry store. A pioneer in the revolutionary short-run process printing employing direct screen separation negatives, Mr. Johnson felt Princeton's strategic geographic location between New York and Philadelphia markets was ideal for business purposes.

Originally equipped with only one duplicating machine and a photograph enlarger, Princeton Polychrome has evolved into one of America's top four-color printers. As its innovative color printing technique caught on in national graphic arts circles, Polychrome's business began booming and a move to a modern plant became necessary in 1961. Today, the Alexander Road facility employs a staff of more than 40.

Princeton Polychrome's accounts run the gamut from American Bilrite of Trenton to The National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C., and includes book jackets, posters and advertising literature as well as producing prints. New electronic-controlled equipment, including a sophisticated color scanner, will be installed in January.

NASSAU FUND TO MERGE
With Windsor Fund. The Boards of Directors of Nassau Fund and Windsor Fund, Inc., both open-end investment companies (mutual funds) have announced an agreement in principle whereby Nassau Fund would be merged with Windsor Fund.

Nassau Fund is located in Princeton. Windsor Fund is a member of The Vanguard Group of Investment Companies, with headquarters in Valley Forge, Pa.

As no-load mutual funds, shares of both Windsor and Nassau are purchased and redeemed at net asset value. As of December 11, the per share net asset value of Windsor was $9.28 and Nassau was $10.98. The exchange ratio to be determined at the merger date will be based on the respective net asset values at that time.

The proposed transaction is expected to take place in early 1979, subject to the approval of the shareholders of Nassau Fund and the receipt of a favorable ruling from the Internal Revenue Service.

EXAMINATION SET
For Substitute Mail Carriers. The United States Postal Service will hold an examination for substitute rural carrier to serve here. The examination, to be held in Trenton, is being given to establish a register of eligibles from which future vacancies will be filled.

The examination is a written test which consists of vocabulary and reading comprehension questions and computations. Three and three-quarters hours should be allowed for the exam.

A substitute rural carrier works a maximum of 27 days a year, filling in for rural carriers who are off. In addition, the substitute is expected to work whenever needed in the month of December - and to be on call 24 hours a day all year. He or she must furnish and maintain a vehicle for the handling of mail. Salaries depend on the length and character of the route.

Applicants for the examination must have reached their 18th birthday by the date of filing the application. Applicants must also be United States citizens or non-citizens who have permanent resident alien status.

Interested persons should submit an application card, PS Form 2479 AB, to the Postmaster of Princeton. This form is available at the post offices at Alexander Road and Palmer Square.

LICENSE REVOKED
By Insurance Commissioner. The insurance licenses of John D. Rosso of 23 Scott Avenue, Princeton Junction, as a property-casualty agent and life-health agent have been suspended for three years for violations of the insurance laws, according to State Insurance Commissioner James J. Sheeran.

Mr. Rosso was charged by the Department of Insurance with collecting more than 600 in premiums from various applicants for auto insurance through the Assigned Risk Plan and failing to process the applications and remit the premiums. The Department's order charged that Mr. Rosso's failure to obtain the insurance for his clients resulted "in a situation detrimental to various insureds, some of whom were subsequently involved in accidents, wherein they were without the insurance coverage evidenced by said applications."

Mr. Rosso did not contest the charges and signed an order consenting to the suspension, which provides that he cannot apply for reinstatement until he has made full restitution of the premiums collected and has satisfied any obligations that may arise as a result of his failure to obtain insurance for his clients.

PROMOTED: J. Robert Hillier, president of The Hillier Group, architects and planners, has announced the promotion of seven members of the firm to principal level. They are George Cedeno, John Pearce, Edmund A. Wilson, Jr., and Dennis Wyckoff, all of Princeton; Joseph J. Bavaro of Middletown, Steven DeRoche of Lawrenceville, and Joel Spaeth of Hopewell. The Hillier Group has experienced an annual growth rate of 27 percent and foresees 30 percent in 1979. With a staff now exceeding 70, it operates offices in Morristown, and Providence, R.I., in addition to Princeton.

Churches Plan Varied Services As Christmas Story is Retold

Christian churches in the community are preparing to celebrate Christmas, the birth of Jesus and the moment in history when the Word became Flesh and dwelt among men.

There will be special services of candlelight and song on Sunday, which is Christmas Eve, and on Monday, Christmas Day. The fourth Sunday in Advent, the season of preparation for Christmas, falls this year on Christmas Eve, and in some churches there will be services related to Advent in the morning and to the Eve at night.

Medieval Carols will be featured at Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street, during a Procession of Lessons and Medieval Carols and the Celebration of the Holy Eucharist for the Fourth Sunday of Advent on Sunday at 10.

During the service, the five Trinity choirs will sing festive carols from medieval manuscript sources accompanied by early instruments, portative organ as well as the new gallery tracker organ. The congregation will participate by singing the carol burdens (refrains), and by playing simple percussion instruments. Advent and Christmas lessons will be read in procession from the main parts of the building, including the various chapels, concluding with a great offertory procession to the central altar in the crossing under the great tower.

Christmas Eve services will include a service for children with the junior girls' choir at 5 and an 8 p.m. festival service of Holy Eucharist with the adult choir, senior girls' choir, and motet choir. The traditional Christmas Eve Midnight Festival Eucharist will begin at 11, and will include singing by the choir of men, boys, and girls. Frank Boles, assistant organist, will play a prelude-recital of Christmas organ music beginning at 10.

The Christmas Day Eucharist will be at 10 a.m. with congregational carol singing and Christmas organ music. Music at all services will feature traditional carols as well as choral singing of carol arrangements and traditional Christmas motets.

The Rev. John Crocker, rector, and The Rev. Roger Cramer, assistant, The Rev. Daphne Hawkes, The Rev. Louise Kingston and The Rev. Dr. Richard Toner will participate in the various Christmas services.

Nassau Presbyterian Church, Palmer Square, will present its annual Christmas Eve pageant Sunday at 5 and 10 p.m. The pageant, telling the traditional story of Christmas, will feature readings and music by the choirs of the church. Following the pageant will be singing of Christmas carols in front of the church.

Coordinator of the pageant is Helen Wise, assisted by choir directors Raymond Egan, Richard Loatman, and Linda Beyea.

The Princeton University Chapel will hold its annual Christmas Eve service on Sunday at 8 p.m. Dean Ernest Gordon will preside and give a sermon on "The Christmas Story and Its Meaning." Special music will be performed by the Madrigal Singers and Recorder Consort of the Princeton Day School under the direction of Frank Jacobson.

Members of the Princeton Ballet will perform under the direction of Mrs. Sherry Alban, choreographer. Dr. Julian Jaynes, lecturer in Psychology at Princeton University, will be the reader. Thomas Gandek of the Class of 1981 will be organist.

On Christmas Day at 11 a.m. a service of Holy Communion will be held, with Dean Gordon speaking on the subject of peace. Both services are open to the public.

Christ Congregation, Walnut Lane and Houghton Road, will hold a candlelight Christmas Eve service of Lessons and Carols Sunday at 10 p.m. Everyone is invited. There will be a fellowship hour at 9 p.m.

The Lutheran Church of the Messiah, 407 Nassau Street, will conduct a single service on Sunday morning at 10. The Sunday School Children's Christmas Service will be at 7 that evening and will be a candlelighting service. The congregation will have a carol communion-service Christmas Eve at 11.

The Christmas Day festival service will be at 10. Everyone is invited. Services on December 31 will return again to 8:30 and 11 with Sunday School at 9:30 and Bible Classes at 9:45.

The Princeton Baptist Church, Penns Neck Circle at Route 1, will hold its annual Christmas Eve Candlelight Service Sunday evening at 7:30. This service will be a festive celebration of the coming of Christmas with choir and carols and the church lit by candles. The Rev. Dan England will officiate, and all are invited to participate in this evening of music and celebration.

At All Saints' Church, All Saint's Road, the Fourth Sunday in Advent will begin with a celebration of Holy Eucharist at 7:30 a.m. and a Family Eucharist at 9 a.m. in which there will be blessing of the Creche and the hanging of greens in the church and the chapel. There will be no classes or adult forum that day, and no 11:15 service.

On Christmas Eve, Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 8 p.m. when the high school choir will sing. A solemn Eucharist will be offered at 11 with singing by the All Saints' Choir.

On Christmas Day Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 10 a.m., but there will be no 5:40 p.m. service. The Rev. A. Orley Swartzentruber is the rector.

Trinity Episcopal Church in Rocky Hill will have a service of lessons and carols with morning prayer on Sunday at 10:30. There will be a Concert of Caroling at 11 p.m., followed by a Candlelight Service of Holy Communion at 11:30.

Holy Communion will be celebrated also on Christmas morning at 10:30. The Rev. Sam Ishibashi is rector.

The United Methodist Church, Nassau and Vandeventer Streets, will observe the fourth Sunday in Advent with the fourth session of adult study on the topic, "Preparing the Way." This will take place at 9:45 a.m., and will be followed by a Festival of the Carols at the 11 a.m. worship service.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Alma Martin Rotnem, 63, of Pride's Crossing, Mass., formerly of 130 Stockton Street, died December 11 in a hospital in Salem, Mass. She was the founder of the Princeton Unit of Recording for the Blind which she guided through rapid growth over a period of seven years.

Mrs. Rotnem was born in Titusville, Pa., and raised in Buffalo, N.Y. She graduated from Sweet Briar College with the Class of 1936 and moved to Princeton in 1951 with her husband, Ralph Rotnem, a partner in Harris Upham in New York City who died several years ago.

Her interest in the blind began when she did some reading for a blind historian at the Institute of Advanced Study and became aware of the difficulty blind students experience at every level in obtaining the materials necessary to their endeavors. After getting in touch with the New York-based Recording for the Blind, Mrs. Rotnem gathered a group of prominent Princeton residents as her first board of trustees and transformed a dingy basement storage area in Princeton Seminary's education building into an attractive, cheerful work area with recording booths.

The Princeton Unit opened its doors on March 10, 1958. Under her guidance, first as studio director as well as Unit chairman, the number of volumes recorded went from 14 the first year to 128 in 1964, the year before she retired as chairman to move with her husband to New York City. There were 113 accepted readers initially, and nearly double that when she left.

Mrs. Rotnem was TOWN TOPICS' Woman of the Week in January, 1965, upon her retirement after "seven years of tireless service." She was cited for "firing the imagination of others in helping overcome the seemingly insurmountable obstacles presented by blindness; for endowing her associates with her own enthusiasm and sense of purpose; (and) for making it possible for Princeton to share its most precious assets with others."

Mrs. Rotnem was a former member of the board of overseers of Sweet Briar College and of the Princeton Nursery School on Leigh Avenue. After Mr. Rotnem's retirement, she moved with her husband to Pride's Crossing, Mass.

She is survived by a son, Ralph Rotnem Jr. of New Canaan, Conn. and her father, J. Lee Martin, who lived with her in Pride's Crossing.

A memorial service was held in St. John's Episcopal Church, Beverly Farms, Mass. Memorial contributions may be made to the Princeton Unit of Recording for the Blind, 100 Stockton Street.

Ernest C. Foster, 100, formerly of Princeton, died December 15 at the Ward Homestead in Maplewood. He was the subject of a feature article in TOWN TOPICS last July on the occasion of his 100th birthday.

He worked as a gardener at Buckingham Palace at one time before going to work in a factory. In 1916 the Homasote Company in Trenton purchased the mill equipment of the English company for which Mr. Foster was working, and he was brought to the United States. He worked for Homasote for 25 years and was also employed by the Essex Rubber Company.

In the 1940's he became a gardener, and his wife the cook, for a family named Hough who lived on the Lawrenceville Road. Mrs. Foster died in 1961 while the couple were living at the Peacock Inn, and after a brief trip back to England Mr. Foster stayed on at the Inn. He moved to the Ward Homestead six years ago. He is survived by several nieces and nephews. A graveside service was held in Princeton Cemetery.

He is survived by his wife, Kathleen N. Terry, a son, Robert Lee Terry, two grandsons, Robert Lee Terry Jr. and Prescott LeBreton Terry and granddaughter, Ellen McHenry Terry, all of Palm Beach. HANUKKAH BEGINS With Service Sunday. By coincidence, the eight-day Jewish festival of Hanukkah or "Feast of Lights" falls this year on the same day as Christmas in the Christian tradition. The Jewish calendar is a fluctuating one because it is a lunar calendar, whereas Christmas is fixed on the 25th day of December.

The festival of Hanukkah commemorates the victory of the Maccabees over King Antiochus IV of Syria and the rededication of the Temple at Jerusalem. Tradition has it that in cleansing the temple of Syrian idols a single cruet of oil was found with which to relight the holy lamps. The cruet contained only enough oil to last eight days, hence the eight-day "Festival of Lights" in which candles on the Menorah are lit one by one.

The Princeton Jewish Center, 457 Nassau Street, will inaugurate the Festival of Hanukkah Sunday at 7 p.m. when the first candle will be lit. The Center will commemorate the Sabbath of Hanukkah on Friday, December 29, at 8:15 p.m. and Saturday, December 30, at 10 a.m.

NATIVITY SCENE SHOWN At Consolata Missionary. The Consolata Fathers are showing their traditional "Nativity Scene-a-Rama" daily from 9 to 5 at the Mission Center, Route 27, Somerset.

The display, which over the past 15 years has become famous in the tri-state area, has been re-designed and relocated with a new concept. On the theme of Isaiah, 66:18; "I come to gather nations of every language; they shall come and see my glory," the diorama represents not only the Bethlehem scene of 2000

SPORTS In Princeton

PHS FALLS AGAIN To Hun, 59-52. Princeton High School threw up a lot of shots in its basketball game with Hun School Tuesday afternoon but too many hit iron as the visiting Little Tigers dropped their third in a row without a win, 59-52. Hun increased its record to 7-2.

PHS coach Marv Trotman started a new five of Kevin and Kelly Robinson, John Sapoch, Peter Sharpless and Shaun Tobin but it is clear the Little Tigers haven't got their act together yet. "Some of our kids played like hell and want to win; some just want to get their names in the paper," remarked Trotman. "They've developed an attitude that they are going to do exactly what they want. Obviously, I'm not in tune with everybody."

Other Sports On Pages 11B-15B

PHS will need some togetherness if it hopes to do well in the Kennedy Memorial Invitational Tournament which will be held over a five-day period from Tuesday through next Saturday in Frenchtown. Princeton's opening-round opponent in the eight-team event is South Hunterdon which it will oppose Tuesday evening at 8:30.

PHS seemed to have an edge against Hun when it finished on top, 12-10, after the first period and Hun standout Arvie Powell had drawn three quick fouls. However, Hun managed to grab the halftime lead of 25-21 without Powell, and in the third period, PHS shot a poor 5-for-24 from the floor, falling behind, 44-35.

PHS tried to press Hun at the end but it only resulted in sending Hun's Garrett Franzoni to the foul line. "Some of our guys were diving on the floor while others were just watching," said Trotman.

Bob Flippin scored 10 second-half points to finish with 13 for PHS. Kevin Robinson and Dave Johnson each had 10 and Sharpless, 8. Powell was high for Hun with 13 while Mark DeLorenzo and Ken Stoddard combined for 23.

LET'S
 ABOUT

CHRISTMAS TREE:
 HOW TO CHOOSE
 ONE AND KEEP IT
 FRESH UNTIL YULETIDE
 with Sam deTuro

Go to a Christmas tree lot early while the choice is wide, and pick a tree that is fresh. After bringing it home, continue to keep it fresh with water, so that needles will remain long after Christmas.

This is how to test the freshness of a Christmas tree:

Rub a finger across the Butt. Stickiness is a sign of freshness. Bounce the stump hard on the ground several times; if needles shed or pull off easily, freshness has gone.

Patches of browned needles mean dryness has set in. A fragrant odor is a good sign of freshness. Healthy green needles are desirable.

At home, cut an inch or two off the stump at a slant. Then peel back the bark another inch. Place the tree, erect, in a bucket of cold water, and keep in a cool place until it is brought indoors just before Christmas.

Keep the pail filled with water. Occasionally sprinkle water on the needles. Some people prefer to spray the needles with anti-transpirant compound. Still others believe in adding a cup or two of sugar to the water in the bucket or container to promote freshness.

Follow the above, and your tree should last well through the holiday season.

Diverse Guyot Avenue Neighborhood Is Circulating Petition Uncomplaining in Nature: It Just Says 'Save Our Bike Path'

At the upper end, it's big-city. Harris Road and Carnahan Place meet Henry Avenue, and Harris continues on over the Borough line to the hospital's big Franklin Avenue parking lot.

Ambulances swiftly arrow into the hospital's emergency entrance, the sleek white concrete of the hospital's new Henry Avenue parking garage makes an urban silhouette on the skyline. There is the pulse and urgency of a big medical center.

Two blocks away, it's country. And more than 100 people who live on and near Harris asked Princeton Township last week to keep it that way.

These are people who make their living as research chemists or gardeners, artists or service-station proprietors, cabaret entertainers or top management executives. Two of the Township's former mayors live here. Black families live next to white families. There is a closely-knit Italian community. It is, in short, Princeton.

Ivy Around a Parking Lot. Let's suppose you drive out of the Medical Center complex and turn north on Witherspoon. You could pass Guyot Avenue, there on your right, without noticing it unless you need a can of paint from Sam Lisi's store or decide to stop at Conte's Bar for a beer or a pizza.

Turn right, into Guyot. (It's

IF THIS BECAME A THOROUGHFARE... The thought brings a shudder to residents of Harris, Carnahan, Henry, Guyot and parts of Jefferson. The tree-shaded path by a little brook connects Guyot Avenue's western and eastern sections.

"Ghee-oh," with a silent "t.") The handsome, stone-faced Conte building has a row of apartments, almost in the manner of a mews. Behind the building is Conte's big parking lot -- perhaps the only one in town lovingly edged with beds of ivy. A chain link fence separates it from the Valley Road Building lot.

You can't drive any farther because Guyot stops here. It begins again, for driving purposes, at Jefferson Road and continues on past the north side of John Witherspoon Middle School.

This middle segment, from behind Conte's to Jefferson, is what neighbors cherish and want to keep "as is." You see it, as you drive in from Witherspoon, as a black-top bike path. Alongside the path is the channel of a little stream. It's not a careless brook like Harry's and residents can recall only one flooding, but there is water in it from time to time.

In summer, it's a quiet, shaded walkway with birds in the thickets planted by lucky house-holders who live next to the brook. School days, it's a walk-or-bike way for kids to travel on the way to Community Park School on Witherspoon, or the Middle School on Walnut Lane. Last winter, it was used by skiers.

The path, as a "path," ends at Moore Street. Connecting Moore and Jefferson is a private roadway, pocked with holes and gravel. Petition-signers would like to keep that roadway in its present, primitive state as an extension of the little path by the brook.

Not Based on Rumor. Robert Burns, artist and retired art teacher (Trenton State), lives on the corner of Harris and the brook, with a splendid artist's north wall of glass facing the pathway. Sitting in his studio-kitchen, with a fire softly burning in the kitchen fireplace, Dr. Burns talked about his reasons for circulating the petition.

"The revision of the Master Plan is now under study," he explained. "It's a good time for neighborhood opinion to be heard. This petition was in no way triggered by any rumor that Guyot Avenue was about to be put through, and we were careful not to start any!"

Dr. Burns' meticulously prepared plot plan of the area was displayed to Township Committee Wednesday night. He pointed to the 1.5 mile span "in the rough," across the Township's inner residential area. If Guyot were put

MUSICAL TOUR SET
In Three Houses. The Trinity-All Saints' Concert Series will present a "Twelfth Night Music Tour," Saturday, January 6, of three Princeton houses. At each house, a different concert will be presented, with the third concert followed by something to delight the "inner" man or woman.

Dr. and Mrs. Lee H. Bristol, 210 Mercer Street, will host a concert of music for organ and solo voice. Vocal chamber music will be presented at the home of Mrs. J. Taylor Woodward, Sr., 15 Hodge Road, while chamber music for strings will be available down the street at the home of T. George Harris, 62 Hodge Road.

The Twelfth Night Music Tour, to be held from 4-6, will be for the benefit of the Trinity-All Saints' Concert Series. Space is limited to 150 people, so reservations are required. Tickets are $10 and cover admission to all three concerts. For reservations and information, call 921-1411 from 9-5 daily.

PROGRAM LISTED
For PHS Winter Concert. The Princeton High School music department will present its annual winter concert on Thursday at 8 in the Princeton University Chapel. The choral department is directed by William R. Trego and Nancianne Parrella.

The orchestra and brass ensemble will be under Portia Sonnenfeld's direction. In addition to the preparations done by over 300 students involved in the music program at the High School, a competition for the design of the cover for the program was open to the student body. Eric Pike submitted the winning design for this year's concert program cover.

To open the program, a brass ensemble will play "Sacrae Symphoniae No. 1" by Giovanni Gabrieli from the balcony. This will be followed by the high school women's chorus singing "Ave Maria" by Zoltan Kodaly and "Adoramus to Christe" by Giovanni Palestrina. The women of the choir will then join the chorus in the balcony for the performance of two works written for four part

The choir has made a three

SOCIETY HONORED
One of Eight Nationally. The Princeton Ballet, founded by director Audree Estey in 1963, has been named one of the top eight regional dance companies in the United States and Canada by the National Association for Regional Ballet, comprising
118 member companies from Toronto to Tacoma.

Designation as a major company of the national association, comparable to winning a gold medal in international dance competition, is based on artistic presentation and flexibility, range and quality of choreography, quality of training, development of male dancers, service to the community and regional ballet as well as ethical behavior.

The seven other companies
sharing such national status include those from
Washington, D.C., Atlanta, Dayton, Tulsa, Minneapolis as well as two from Dallas.

The Princeton company, made up of young dancers from throughout central New Jersey selected at annual auditions, this season has added eight resident professional dancers under year-long contracts. Major company status, however, was based on the Princeton Ballet's quality before this took place.

One of football's great legends concerns George Gipp, who played his last season for Notre Dame in 1920 ... Would you like to read about the details of that legend? ... Gipp became ill during his senior year and was on his death bed ... Coach Knute Rockne came to visit, and Gipp gave Rockne the basis for the most famous pep talk in football history ... Gipp reportedly said, "I've got to go now, Rock. It's all right. But sometime, Rock, when the team's up against it; when things are wrong and the breaks are beating the boys, tell them to go in there with all they've got ... and win one for the Gipper" ... Rockne waited till halftime of the Notre Dame-Army game of 1928 ... He used Gipp's last words as his pep talk ... Needless to say, Notre Dame won that day.

Here's a football oddity ... Although field goal kickers often decide games, and are among the most important players on any squad, National Football League teams rarely draft field goal kickers in the early rounds -- and in fact, most of today's leading kickers joined their teams only after being released by another team ... That includes such top field goal kickers as Errol Mann, Effren Herrera, Rafael Septien, Roy Gerela, Garo Yepremian and Mark Moseley.

Six Technical Foul Shots in 54-51 Rutgers Loss a Record; Butch van Breda Koff Opposes Pete Carril Here Wednesday

One of the infrequent player-coach relationships, involving one man who learned part of his early basketball from the other and then succeeded him in a coaching job, will provide added interest this Wednesday night at 8 when the University of New Orleans comes to Jadwin Gymnasium. The game will be televised on New Jersey Public Television, Channels 23 and 52.

Twenty-six years ago, Pete Carril was a senior at Lafayette, and Butch van Breda Koff (Princeton '44) was his coach. When van Breda Koff left Dillon Gym after five highly-successful years for the coaching job with the Los Angeles Lakers in the NBA, Carril moved from Lehigh to Dillon and then Jadwin Gym.

Now, after five NBA stints in less than a decade, van Breda Koff, an outstanding athlete who was an All-American in soccer and a member of the New York Knicks, is returning for his first game in the gym for which he and Bill Bradley were responsible but in which neither ever was part of a game. When Bradley led Princeton into the national spotlight (Dillon Gym's 3200 seats were often sold out when he was playing as a freshman before a varsity game), the L. Stockwell Jadwin family of New York gave the University the $6.5 million for the multipurpose athletic facility which seats 7,550.

The battle between the two masters of disciplined basketball will be of interest. Of the two, van Breda Koff will go with the run-and-shoot variety if he can, but he is in a rebuilding year, having lost all five starters from the 21-6 team that took the Sun Belt Conference championship last winter. Lloyd Terry, a 6-9 junior college transfer, is the big man; Sophomore Mike Edwards, a 6-4 guard, directs the attack.

TECHNICALS COSTLY

In Loss to Rutgers. It probably won't find a place in the trivia that dots the Princeton record book, but the six technicals assessed against the Princeton coaching staff in the Rutgers game Saturday night have never been equalled in 78 years of the sport and, hopefully, may never be matched in the future.

They were assessed in the closing minute, precipitated when freshman Neil Christel's driving layup that would have tied the score at 49 was disallowed and he was called for charging. Pete Carril's counter-arguments were deemed sufficiently impolite by the referee that he awarded Rutgers four free throws for back-to-back technical fouls, when assistant coach Tony Relvas followed Carril out on the floor and seconded Carril's low estimate of the official's ability, two more foul shots followed.

It was, briefly, something of a circus. While Rutgers guard Tom Brown was missing four of the first five free throws, Carril's anger changed to derisive laughter as he made the choke sign. But Bill Clarke of the Scarlet replaced Brown, converting on the last one, and the resultant four-point lead was more than the Tigers could overcome.

The final score, 54-51, was Rutgers' coach Tom Young's sixth victory in seven meetings with Carril, in one of the few bitter coaching rivalries in which Princeton is involved. The next meeting between the two teams will be in Jadwin on February 5, 1980.

20 Minutes Short ... For two and a half games last week, another astonishing chapter appeared about to be written in the frequently-intriguing history of Princeton basketball. On Tuesday, a somewhat unimpressive and certainly unheralded Tiger quintet had walked onto the Palestra floor in Philadelphia and outplayed the fifth-ranked team in the East. Villanova, a 19-point conqueror of Rutgers, became a 65-59 victim of the

In Princeton

Tigers. Led by Bob Roma's 22 points and 19 rebounds, Princeton hit for a great 61 percent from the floor to a very mediocre 37 percent for the losses and outrebounded them, 38-28.

Forty-eight hours later, ex-Columbia coach Tom Penders, a student of Carril's disciplined, methodical style, very nearly outdid the master, Penders's young Fordham team threw a 2-3, 1-2-1 and other zone variations at the less-than-inspired Tigers, held them to 16 points in the first half and very nearly beat them before succumbing, 38-37.

Down by 10 when the final period began, Princeton won because its fine man-to-man defense held the Rams to a lone field goal and three fouls in the next 15 minutes. That gave the struggling offense time to edge ahead for the first time at 32-31 on Tom Young's reverse layup and eventually to yield a pair of uncontested field goals when it was protecting a three-point lead.

Led by Co-Captain John Lewis, who converted on all four shots on one-and-one situations in the closing minutes, Princeton proved the age-old adage that when field goals are hard to produce, accurate foul-shooting will win the game. The Tigers converted a near-perfect 12 of 13 while Fordham, at 9-for-19, was below 50 percent.

Penders and the Bomb. Roma's inability to free himself for passes in the first half (he never got a single shot) and 22 percent shooting by his teammates contributed largely to the early deficit. Eventually, the 6-8 Tiger senior contributed a dozen points, while Lewis's ten -- all in the second half -- gave the co-captains better than 60 percent of the victors' point-production between them.

Last time Penders was in Jadwin Gym, the Columbia Lions he later left played the same type of game and won, 38-36. The gym was emptied for half an hour because of a telephoned bomb-scare hoax. It was just as well for Princeton no such incident was repeated -- the Tigers grew steadily better as the second half wore down, and any interruption might well have cooled them off.

Momentum at Rutgers Reversed. A Princeton zone in the game at Piscataway Saturday put Rutgers' fine center, 6-8 Jim Bailey, in the deep freeze, and his inability to score more than two points in the first half was a major factor in Princeton's 29-23 lead. Shortly after play resumed, with the Orange and Black enjoying an eight-point (33-25) advantage, the Scarlet switched to a rare man-to-man defense, and the pressure that allowed against the Tigers eventually made the difference.

With Cristel and sophomore guard Dave Blatt hitting well over the zone, Princeton still enjoyed a 43-37 advantage with nine minutes to go. But Rutgers steals and Tiger turnovers reversed the momentum quickly, and three minutes later, the home team had a 47-45 lead — its first since the opening tapoff.

After the Scarlet killed the clock with a stall from 3:09 to 1:35, Bailey missed the first of a one-and-one and Christel's hotly-debated non-field goal and charging foul followed. Because of that, and the incredible six technicals, the spectacular week that might have been never was.

SKATERS NOW 2-5

As They Head for Minnesota. A pair of games Friday and Saturday against the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis and the RPI Tournament in Troy, N.Y., constitute the Princeton hockey team's holiday schedule. The Tigers' last outing at Providence, R.I., resulted in a 9-3 defeat at the hands of league-leading Brown, dropping their record to two victories against five defeats.

The Minnesota-Princeton rivalry is built around a two-game series played in the prehistoric ages. It was 1935, Dick Vaughan's first-year as the Princeton coach.

George Willis was the captain, the Orange and Black was a highly-respectable 13-8-1 that winter and one of its triumphs was a 4-3 defeat of the Gophers on Minnesota ice. The home team earned a split 43 years ago by winning the other game, 3 to 1.

In the action at Troy, the host team, Rensselaer Polytech, and the Tigers will be joined by the Air Force Academy and St. Lawrence. The tournament will begin Wednesday, December 27, and run for three days on a round-robin basis.

Fade Follows Fast Start.

First-period goals by Ron Sherstobitoff, a sophomore defenseman, and Ken Koenig, a freshman forward, put Princeton in a 2-2 tie in the early going against Brown, but a rash of penalties then proved the Orange and Black's undoing. Three power-plays by the home team all produced goals, the last six seconds before the end of the round, and the Tigers were down, 5-2, after just 20 minutes.

Four more Brown goals followed, with Craig Tresham adding one for the losers. Scott Sillcox, who had met with initial success this season, was replaced in the goal mid-way through the contest by senior Will Schmedes. While the Orange and Black has a variety of problems this winter, the uncertainty that exists in goaltending has an unsettling effect and season-long difficulties may well dominate the future.

INTO LIONS' DEN

For PHS Mat Team. "We'll win a few," said PHS wrestling coach Tom Murray last week, after his team, ahead by two points until the final three matches, dropped a 32-22 decision to Woodrow Wilson.

However, one the Little Tigers don't figure to win is Friday evening's meet with the powerful North Hunterdon Lions to be held at North Hunterdon High at 8. Last week, North Hunterdon, a perennial state wrestling power, ripped West Windsor, 46-13, a team picked by many to succeed Princeton High this year as Mercer County champions.

This Wednesday evening at 7:30, the 0-2 Little Tigers will tangle with North Brunswick High in North Brunswick.

"Our good kids are going to have to go out and score to buy time for our younger kids until they progress -- and they will," said Murray. Murray has a potentially fine squad that needs a little more experience, a little more seasoning in some weights, but he is confident the Blue and White will come on.

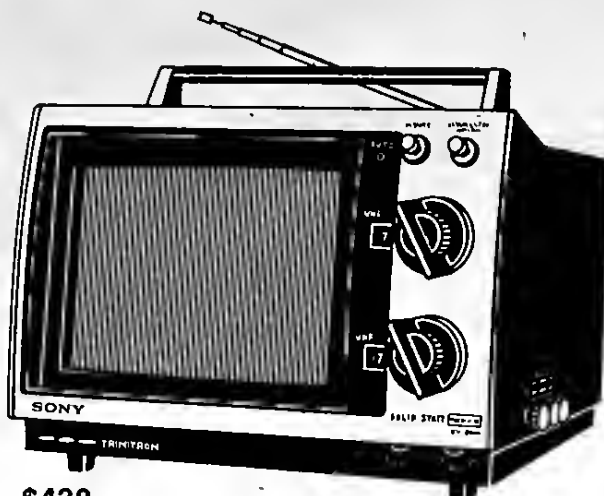

One who is expected to win big for PHS, and did, is Captain Matt Wilkinson, Princeton candidate for its first state champion. Wilkinson scored his second first-period pin in two starts with a fall in 1:30 in the 108-pound division.

"I look for Wilkinson to win a state championship," Murray said. "His attitude is great."

"He's in fantastic shape and he really wants it bad. I'm not saying he won't lose but the kid who beats him is going to have to be outstanding."

Another who had a good match against Wilson was 158-pounder Gary Carnevale, who won a lopsided, 15-0 superior decision. That was worth five points and it gave his teammates a 22-20 lead with three matches remaining.

The visitors won them all, however, to take the match. Luciano Procaccini lost a 7-2 decision at 170 pounds, and Chris Gabrielson and Marco Nini, two newcomers to the team, also went down.

Gabrielson lost a decision, while Nini, a sophomore, suffered a double leg takedown at the start and "it was all over quick," said Murray. "He's going to win," he added.

Preceding Carnevale's match, Brent Robinson won a 6-0 decision in the 141-pound class, and Mike Santoro followed with a 6-2 decision at

Michael Hunninghake Tops 9-Year-Olds In PP&K Contest—In Action Again Jan. 7

The Eagles and Princeton's Michael Hunninghake each had a big day Sunday.

The Eagles, of course, clinched a berth in the NFL playoffs for the first time with their 20-3 win over the New York Giants; 9-year-old Michael, representing the Eagles for the second year, won the National Football Conference Punt, Pass & Kick championship for the second time at the PP&K divisional semifinals during the Detroit - San Francisco game.

His father, Dr. Leroy Hunninghake, 154 Dodds Lane, reported from Detroit Monday morning that winning a PP&K conference championship twice has never been done before.

Michael will compete January 7 (the site will depend on the outcome of the pro football playoffs) against the 9-year-old American Football Conference champion for the national PP&K title. He won the national 8-year-old PP&K crown last year at the Super Bowl in New Orleans.

Fourteen nine-year-old PP&K divisional finalists from around the country competed in Detroit, the top two finishers going head-to-head on Sunday at halftime. Michael, reported Dr. Hunninghake, responded like the champion he is with his best performance ever.

He kicked 96 feet, punted 95 and passed 80.5 for 271.5 feet, far outdistancing his opponent who finished with a total of 185 feet.

148 pounds over what Murray finished with 10 points but led described as Wilson's "best Hun in rebounds with eight."

Teammate Mark DeLorenzo added 10 more and Ken

Murray, of Santoro. "He's shown a lot more determination this year and if he continues as he has he's going to be a winner for us."

Princeton's other victory came at 122 pounds where Bruce Cobb, a veteran, wrestling for the first time this fall, won an 11-7 decision. "It was a good match for Cobb, the other kid was real strong," Murray commented.

A key match that might have turned the meet Princeton's way was in the 135-pound class, where Bob Schmidt had to default after sustaining an injury to his knee during the match. "That was a possible six we might have had ourselves," said Murray, who added Schmidt will be lost to the team for two weeks, maybe more.

In other matches, freshman Josh Miller, wrestling his first match, fought to a 3-3 draw at 101 pounds; Eric Schwartz (115 pounds) and Sean Keenan (129) were pinned.

HUN VS. PDS FRIDAY

Night Game Scheduled. For the second week in a row, the Hun School basketball team advanced to the finals of an invitational tournament, only this time the Raiders lost.

Hun fell behind 17-6 in the first period, never was able to catch up, and lost, 55-43, to a taller Mount Herman, N.Y., team in the final round of the Hill School Tournament in Pottstown, Pa. Hun's Arvie Powell, who scored 51 points in three games, was named to the Hill All-Tournament team.

Hun will oppose rival Princeton Day School Friday evening at 7:45 in the PDS gym before breaking for the holiday. It will resume January 5 against Newark Academy.

"We drew an early cold streak and got behind and couldn't catch up," said Hun coach Dave Leete about the title game with Mount Herman. A victim of the cold streak was Powell, who couldn't find the basket and had to settle for a 4-for-16 effort from the floor. He Stoddard, nine. Mount Herman started two players 6-6 and one 6-5, Leete reported.

That Hun advanced to the final was the result of an incredible last-second shot by DeLorenzo.

Hun had forced an overtime in its semi-final contest with Trinity of Massachusetts when Stoddard stole the ball and passed off to Powell who hit a jumper with 30 seconds left, tying the score at 45. In the overtime, Trinity, nursing a one-point lead, controlled the ball as the clock ran down to the final seconds. Hun committed a desperation foul with one tick left on the clock. It then called three consecutive time-outs to try to rattle the Trinity foul shooter.

Buzzer Bomb. When the shot came, it bounced off the rim. Stoddard, standing under the Trinity basket, grabbed the ball and rifled an 80-foot desperation shot the length of the court. It struck the backboard and banked in the net. "It was an amazing shot, it was hard to believe," said Leete.

Powell had dominated the game until then. He led all scorers with 27, including eight of Hun's 14 in the final period and two more in the overtime, won by Hun, 5-4. Stoddard and DeLorenzo combined for 15 points, Stoddard getting nine.

In the opening round, Hun ousted host team Hill, 66-38, behind 14 points by Powell and 10 by Stoddard. Lawrenceville School captured the tourney's consolation trophy with a 58-48 victory over Hill.

Lawrence Wins, 61-56. Earlier in the week, Hun (6-2) lost its first game of the season when it went down in double overtime to Lawrence Township, 61-56.

Hun had fallen behind in the third period against the Cardinals but managed to outscore the visitors, 17-13, in the final period as the game ended deadlocked at 50. In the first overtime, both teams were limited to two points, a field goal by Ken Holloway of Lawrence and two free throws by DeLorenzo.

In the second overtime, Dave Ksanznak and Adam Bethea combined for six of nine Cardinal points while Hun was held to four. Powell connected on 15 of 25 shots from the floor to lead all scorers with 31, but no other Hun player made more than six. Bethea (23) and Holloway (17) led Lawrence, which won its second without a defeat.

No players are cut or not allowed to make the team. Those who sign up are automatically a member of a team. In YBA, the emphasis is values, participation and fun.

The season will run from February 14 through March 31, with all games played Saturday mornings. For season last week as 12 teams began battle for the top spot in two separate divisions.

8TH SEASON BEGINS In Dillon Basketball League. The Dillon Basketball League opened its eighth

In the junior division, Nassau Conference, The Cheaters capitalized on a 14-point performance by Mike Petrone to defeat the Super-Sonics, 37-19. The Cheaters also received good performances from Scott Herzog and Brad Powers who each tallied seven points. The Super-Sonics produced a more balanced scoring attack as Greg Savidge, Earl Harris, Ralph Jackson and Keith Offredo led the offense.

In other Nassau Conference action, the Trailblazers forged a 21-6 first quarter lead and coasted to a 39-22 victory over the 76ers. Scott Fisher led the victors with 16 points, while Paige Walden, Frantz Massanet and Keith McKellar also contributed.

"Our subjective seat-of-the-pants impressions of the 5000's handling were borne out by our 700-ft. slalom test where the car turned in a speed of 56.8 mph. This is...nearly 4 mph better than the Peugeot 604 (July, 1977)."

"The ride is comfortable on every surface and there is plenty of wheel travel to allow dips and culverts to be taken at speed without upsetting the Audi's aplomb."

first quarter, they managed to play the Blazers even as Mickey Hammond and Dino D'Angelo led their attack with nine and seven points respectively.

The Tiger Conference Green Machine edged the Buccaneers, 25-21, on a last-quarter rally led by Keith Green who had 12 points. Thirty-eight fouls were called in the game, but the Buccaneers could only capitalize on three of 20. The Buccaneer offense was well balanced as seven players scored.

In other Tiger Conference action, the Tigers nipped the Head Hunters, 21-18, as Stuart Magruder, Jason Petrone, Tony Rosenthal and Pat McKellar led the fourth quarter rally which turned the game around. Petrone led the Tigers with nine points, while the Head Hunters received the bulk of their scoring from Joe O'Grady and Keith Dede, who combined for 14.

In the Senior division, The Super-Sonics jumped off to an early lead against the Knicks, but had to stave off a comeback attempt before gaining a 45-40 win. Major Brown dominated the inside as he scored 25 of his game-high 32 points in the first half.

The Knicks rebounded in the second half and came within one point of the Super-Sonics on the play by Les Spann (12 points) and Jerry Ingram (14). With 26 seconds remaining, Robert Stokes sank two free throws to put the game out of reach for the Knicks.

The Celtics built an early lead against the 76ers and coasted to an impressive 56-37 victory. The Celtic offense was led by guard Mike Shipley, who tallied a game-high 15 points. Defense was the key to the Celtic victory, as the high-scoring backcourt of David Barclay and Terrence Phox were held to a total of eight points.

PDS LOSES THREE

In St. Mark's Tourney. Everybody knew the Princeton Day hockey team had a rough road ahead when it took off for the St. Mark's Tournament in New England last week, but no one was quite prepared for the unfortunate outcome.

Playing three games in two days, the Panthers lost all three, winding up in last place in the eight-team tourney.

Along the way, captain Mike Shannon, their top offensive threat was injured, and had to sit out a good part of the time.

After a promising 2-0 start, the Blue and White is now 2-3, and except for an unofficial contest with the alumni at 6:15 December 26, it at least will have plenty of time to recover. Shannon will definitely be back for the Hill game January 6, but a big question mark still remains.

That is the availability of first-string goalie Jeff Johnson, who is still recovering from a knee operation. It is healing well, but at the moment it is painful for Johnson to go to his knees to make a save. Coach Harry Rulon-Miller is hopeful he can teach him to be a stand-up goalie.

A healthy Johnson might have made the difference in the first game of the tournament. Playing Holderness School, PDS scored five times, but gave up seven in return. Holderness jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first period, but tallies by Larry Pierson and John Peter later in the first brought the Panthers within States; vice-president of the one, and John Sweeney Philadelphia Tennis Association and an officer and board member of the Germantown Cricket Club.

With Wilkinson and Pierson scoring for PDS, the teams traded goals back and forth the rest of the period, which ended with Holderness up 6-5. The contest's most crucial goal came with just 51 seconds gone in the third period, and it gave Holderness a 7-5 advantage. "That goal really deflated us," commented Rulon-Miller. "We had our end the rest of the period." Indeed, PDS got just one shot on goal in the final stanza.

Things went from bad to worse in the consolation round against St. Mark's. The host team notched two tallies in the first 70 seconds of play, and Shannon, who had been trying his best to play even at half speed, sat down for good. Shuffling lines like cards, Rulon-Miller kept his forces together until the middle of the second period when a rash of Panther penalties produced further damage.

St. Mark's scored on three power play goals, once when PDS was two men down, to up the margin to 6-0. At the start of the third period, Rulon-Miller replaced Phil Maltese in the nets with freshman Peter Bordes. With the team in a general state of disarray, the winners produced six more goals. Drezner scored late in the game to avert a shutout, but the final score was 12-1.

In the battle with Salisbury to stay out of last place, PDS did not go down without putting up a good fight. The two teams played an even but scoreless first period. In the second, Drezner scored on a power play to give PDS a 1-0 lead. It did not hold up long. Salisbury quickly tied it up a couple of minutes later, and went ahead on a power play tally later in the same period. Another power play for the winners produced an insurance goal in the last period.

Rulon-Miller praised the play of Kent Wilkinson, who was switched to defense for most of the tournament. "He kept us together by his presence out there," Rulon-Miller commented. "He seemed to be everywhere."

PHS GIRLS LOSE

In Basketball to Ewing. The Princeton High School girls basketball season got off on a muted note last week when the Little Tigers dropped a 64-24 opening decision to Ewing.

Failing to score more than seven points in any period, PHS trailed 29-13 at the half. Barbara Rice led the losers with 10 points.

PHS will travel to Maple Point for a Thursday game in its next start and next Tuesday through Thursday, December 26-28, will participate in the New Brunswick High School Christmas Tournament.

PDS BEATS HIGHTSTOWN

For Third Consecutive Win. Fine rebounding by Carl Hill and Jamie Bartolomei and balanced team scoring led the Princeton Day basketball team to its third straight victory Monday night, 50-41, against Hightstown.

Hill and Bartolomei each grabbed 15 rebounds, while four Panther players shared in the scoring. Hill had 17, Bartolomei 14, with Jim Cox, returning to the line-up after an ankle injury, and Vic Kuzmich getting 10 apiece.

Coupled with two triumphs

last week, this win was the fourth in five games for the Blue and White. Hightstown fell one game below .500 at 2-3.

The winners opened up a four-point bulge at the end of the first quarter, but led by just a point at the half, 22-21. They managed to increase that lead to four at the end of the third period, and then pulled away in the fourth.

In its two victories last week, PDS had the tougher time with Delbarton on Wednesday, winning 61-51. The teams were deadlocked at 12 apiece after the first quarter, as the Panthers had to adjust to the loss of forward Jim Cox, who suffered an ankle injury 20 seconds into the game.

However, in the second period, the Blue and White outscored the home team 18-10, to take a 30-22 lead into the intermission. This proved to be the decisive quarter, as PDS outscored Delbarton by only one basket in the third and fourth stanzas.

Hill pumped in 12 from the field and added four free throws for 28 points, Bartolomei had 14.

Two days later on their home court, the Panthers blew out St. Benedict's of Jersey City, 66-43. It was all over at the half, as PDS rolled to a 18-8 first-quarter lead, and increased that to 34-19 by the intermission. Hill continued his torrid pace with 25 points, while Bartolomei had 17.

Vacation time may be here, but there is barely any let up in the Panthers' schedule. The team will travel to New Brunswick this Wednesday to take on Rutgers Prep; Friday it will be back home hoping to avenge the loss to Hun. Tipoff time will be 7:45 p.m. for that one.

Christmas will intervene briefly, but on the 27th, PDS will be off for the Hamilton Christmas Tournament.

Guyot Avenue Petition

through for automobiles, so that a driver could go straight from Witherspoon to the Shopping Center -- parallel to Valley Road -- "the whole concept of a leisurely east-west walkway, would be wiped out."

Dr. Burns carries preservation one step farther: he'd like to see the present rough path from Ewing to North Harrison and the Shopping Center mapped in as part of a cross-town walkway that could carry walkers and bikers from Community Park North all the way to the Shopping Center and the Walnut Lane campuses.

Princeton's school principals are right there with the petitioners: George Petrillo of the High School, William Johnson of the Middle School, Eugene Biringer of Community Park -- all say they value the Guyot path as a safe way for kids to get to school and to the recreation areas of Community Park.

Committee itself was sympathetic -- even eagerly so -- although they pointed out to Dr. Burns and his neighbors that it was up to the Planning Board.

"It's a unique petition," Dr. Burns observed, over a cup of tea. "We weren't complaining about anything. We simply want something to stay."

Early Integration. Dr. Burns designed and built his Harris Road house in 1960, when the street was very new, and fields were on each side. Across the street and a bit farther south are the homes of two black families who were brave pioneers on the integrated-housing frontier of the late 1950s.

Fannie Floyd, whose husband, James, is a former Township mayor (and now a member of the Joint Consolidation Study Commission) recalls with a quiet smile how the Floyds and their next-door neighbors, Lankford and Aurelia Bolling, happen to be living there.

"The land was up for sale and we got it through the Princeton Housing Group. Well, a principal in the realty company was an elder of the First Presbyterian Church, which supported integrated housing, so the Housing Group and we ourselves just kept up the pressure. They didn't want to sell us land across the street because" -- and she laughs -- "it would mean we'd be backing up to white property-owners on Jefferson Road!"

So the Floyds and the Bollings are on the west side of Harris instead of the east side. Mr. Floyd is general manager of the Trenton and Clark installations of Stokes Molded Products.

However, another black family now does live on the "white" side of Harris -- James Carson, a veteran member of the Nassau Club staff.

Other neighbors on this street of pleasant, split-levels are Lou Lucullo, whose father-in-law owns Conte's, the gardener Umberto Perna and, south toward Franklin, Vincent Esposito, who owns the service station on the Witherspoon-Henry corner.

An Ethnic Mix. A long-time Harris resident is Lee Dratfield, the cabaret singer. The sounds of Parisian cafe songs and the twirl of a black silk glove are everyday occurrences on this quiet street as Lee rehearses in her recreation room for the next cabaret appearance.

Carnahan, west of Harris, has an Irish name but almost all the residents are Italian. Dr. Burns found, as he circulated his petition, that many of the elderly residents of Carnahan, with old-world courtesy, simply had to decline a discussion because they did not know English.

At the north is the stretch called by its residents "the uncivilized part" of Harris because the private road is only rough gravel. It connects Valley Road with the brookside-path.

It is also a kind of Faculty Row. One of the speakers at Committee last week was Dr. Augusta Barrois, art historian who teaches at Westminster Choir College. Her husband is the Rev. Dr. Georges A. Barrois, emeritus professor at Princeton Theological Seminary.

Linked to the Woods. Like the other "uncivilized" houses, the Barrois's is one-story, closely linked to the woods. Inside, it is a European house, reflecting the French and Austrian origins of its owners, and the zeal of their intellectual pursuits.

Neighbors are Lothar and Greta Sander, both biochemists, both gifted musicians; and Lore Lindefeld, the weaver, and her physicist husband, Peter; and Vincent Staats, a retired contractor, and his wife, Audrey, secretary to an Educational Testing Service executive.

This isn't the first time Harris residents have appeared before Township Committee. Many of them -- including Mayor Floyd -- protested expansion of the Medical Center and almost all, at one time or another, have objected when hospital employees park on residential streets. Purchase by the hospital of houses on Henry and Harris has also been a source of irritation.

Committee has adjusted parking regulations in response to many of these requests. As it is now, there is only two-hour parking on Harris between 8 a.m. and 6, and no parking at all between 2 a.m. and 6 a.m. Neighbors say completion of the new garage has eased parking "a little." Mrs. Floyd is concerned about sight-lines for people driving out of the garage into the two-way traffic on Henry.

One specialized parking problem is expected to be solved this January. The Espositos, who have an invalid member of the family, will be given a 75-foot "no parking" zone so that therapists and physicians on emergency calls to their house will be able to park.

Like most Princeton neighborhoods, this one combines variety and privacy. The streets are quiet; people live within their own homes.

Former Mayor William Wilson, who lives on that rough-hewn stretch between Moore and Jefferson, signed the petition to keep the brook-path -- and has certainly never expressed desire to see the dirt road improved. Language barriers build walls of privacy for many, although English-speaking residents know their Italian neighbors, and both share the same parking vexations. The nervousness of housing integration is something to smile at -- 20 years later.

Everyone feels the need to be watchful about Medical Center plans, and some do not want to speak publicly about their uneasiness. But if there is need, it is certain that the petitions will go, once again and promptly, to Township Hall.
